If a lawsuit or other court action is initiated to obtain proprietary information, a PROPOSER(S) who submit the proprietary information according to the above procedure must have legal counsel intervene in the court action and defend the secrecy of the information. Failure to do so shall be deemed PROPOSER'S consent to the disclosure of the information by COUNTY, PROPOSER'S waiver of claims for wrongful disclosure by COUNTY, and PROPOSER'S covenant not to sue COUNTY for such a disclosure.

PROPOSER(S) also agrees to fully indemnify COUNTY if COUNTY is assessed any fine, judgment, court cost or attorney's fees as a result of a challenge to the designation of information as proprietary.

EXHIBIT A
SCOPE OF WORK
RESIDENTIAL SUBSTANCE ABUSE TREATMENT

Residential substance abuse treatment is a course of individual and group activities and treatment provided in a residential facility. Residential treatment services are provided to eligible children and adolescents exhibiting maladaptive patterns of substance use leading to clinically significant impairment or distress that cannot be treated in other less restrictive treatment settings. Youthful offenders requiring residential substance abuse treatment, both male and female, may be already in the community under supervision of an assigned probation officer, they may be offenders completing a placement or correctional component of a Court Order, or may be offenders awaiting adjudication by a Court.

The goal of residential substance abuse treatment is to change the client's attitudes and behavior regarding drug use, especially in cases where the client has a long history of drug use and/or the client's social functioning is severely compromised. A residential program allows clients to avoid the temptations that led them to take the drugs they are now addicted to. In addition, clients are removed from the people and places that served as triggers to substance use/abuse, allowing them to concentrate fully on their recovery program.

Key elements include, but are not limited to; skills teaching, therapeutic structure and routine, therapeutic recreation, motivational systems and behavioral management. Residential substance abuse treatment seeks to successfully transition the client to permanent placement by providing cognitive, behavioral, social, vocational, and other skills to address the substance abuse and related problems. Many programs throughout the United States provide other services to address the needs of clients, such as family therapy, employment training, and social, health, and legal services.

Vendors shall clearly articulate frequency, intensity, capacity and duration of residential substance abuse treatment services to include treatment modalities (e.g. cognitive-behavioral therapy, cognitive processing therapy, multidimensional family therapy, motivational interviewing, dialectical behavioral therapy, motivational incentives, other promising practices, etc.) encompassed in their proposal. Vendors need to address methods that will they will utilize to ensure that clients receive the least restrictive level of care and intensity of treatment services as opposed to a time driven program. If applicable, vendors need to clearly articulate their ability to provide counseling services to individuals diagnosed with co-existing and or co-occurring issues related to mental health and substance abuse. Additionally, vendor shall articulate any populations that they are unable to provide services based on intellectual and cognitive disability and/or delinquent history.

Proposals need to clearly articulate a residential substance abuse treatment program, which includes the following elements:

1. Academics;
2. Assessment;
3. Comprehensive and integrated treatment approach;
4. Reunification and family involvement in treatment;
5. Developmentally appropriate program;
6. Engagement of clients;
7. Qualified staff;
8. Gender and cultural competence;
9. Continuing care that includes specifics on relapse prevention training, aftercare plans, referrals to community resources and follow-up; and
10. Treatment outcomes.

The awarded vendor(s) is responsible for providing DJJS with a type written report after every substance abuse assessment within five (5) business days after meeting with the client. The awarded vendor(s) providing substance abuse treatment services are responsible for providing DJJS with a type written treatment plan within five (5) business days of admission. The awarded vendor(s) providing residential substance abuse treatment services are responsible for providing DJJS with a type written discharge summary within five (5) business days after the conclusion or termination of residential substance abuse treatment services.

DJJS requires that the assessment, treatment plan and discharge summary be faxed and/or submitted electronically in a portable document format (.pdf) upon completion to the assigned probation officer and that a hard copy is also mailed to DJJS Probation Administration.

DJJS will initiate referrals for service(s) and appropriate documentation will be supplied to the awarded vendor(s) prior to any services being rendered. This may include prior court reports, documentation from placements, hospitalizations, prior mental health and substance abuse services, school records and any other relevant case material. DJJS is responsible for supplying this documentation, along with concise parameters regarding the intent of the referral. This is in addition to any initial intake paperwork the awarded vendor(s) may require to render services.
