

Mt. Charleston South Loop Trail Re-Opens

More than 3 years after the devastating Carpenter One fire, the South Loop Trail to Mt. Charleston re-opened on September 24th. The trail had been closed due to hazardous conditions after the fire and subsequent flash flooding. The re-opening of the trail was possible due to the hard work and dedication of trail crews from the US Forest Service, Friends of Nevada Wilderness and the Great Basin

Institute. These crews cleared downed trees, some of which had trunks over 30 inches in diameter, and rebuilt parts of the trail that had been erased altogether or buried beneath as much as 10 feet of rocks and dirt. Not to mention the fact that the crews had to make the strenuous hike just to get to their work areas. Providing support to the crews throughout the process were the dedicated members of the Bristlecone Chapter of the Back County Horsemen of Nevada.

The re-opening ceremony, which was held in conjunction with National Public Lands Day, included representatives from the US Forest Service, Nevada's Congressional delegation, and all of the groups that contributed to getting the trail re-opened a year ahead of schedule.

RURAL CONNECTIONS

Clark County Welcomes Trout Canyon As Newest VFD

Thanks to the hard work of Chief Larry Haydu, the residents of the mountain community of Trout Canyon, and many others, the Trout Canyon Volunteer Fire Department is now a reality! This is the first new Volunteer Fire Department in Clark County in 20 years. The department began operation on Sunday September 18th at approximately 5:00 pm. Chief Rodd Fernandez and the 6 new wildland firefighters will provide wildfire coverage annually from April through October. This was a huge effort and took about two years from inception to fruition. The new department was created at no additional cost to the county using available apparatus and equipment.

Each new member received approximately 27 hours of training including 10 hours of online training, 12 hours of classroom instruction and 5 hours of hands on training. The hands on training consisted of cutting hand line, fire shelter deployment, back firing and firing devices, mobile pumping, hose lays, use and maintenance of Personal Protective Equipment and tools, and how to obtain on site weather. The US Forest Service, the Bureau of Land Management, the North Las Vegas Fire Department, CCFD Station 79 (Mountain Springs), and Fire Instructor Chris Carbajal provided excellent hands on experience for the final portion of the training.

The devastating Carpenter 1 fire started in Trout Canyon as a result of a lightning strike, and that fire was the motivation behind these new capabilities. The new resident Volunteer Firefighters, who are now properly trained and equipped to combat wildfires, will be able to safely provide a quick attack in Trout Canyon and extinguish or hold a fire until additional resources can respond to assist.

Rattlesnake Avoidance Training Clinic for Pets

Rattlesnakes are still active in mild weather, so if you enjoy activities that take you and your dogs outdoors, you may be at risk for encountering rattlesnakes.

University of Nevada Cooperative Extension, in collaboration with Get Rattled, is providing a training session at UNCE's Lifelong Learning Center at 8050 Paradise Rd. in Las Vegas on Saturday, Oct. 8, 2016. Training is provided by either appointment or walk-in between 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. with sessions lasting approximately 20 minutes. Cost is $85 per dog and refresher training is $60. The clinic does require the use of a remote training collar that will be customized to fit each dog. The clinic will provide local dog owners extra assurance and peace of mind that their dogs will avoid dangerous rattlesnake encounters, protecting their health, and their families from suffering the pain and medical costs of a rattlesnake bite.

Health risks to dogs from a bite can vary greatly depending on the amount of venom injected, the species and size of rattlesnake, and the size of the dog and where it was bitten. Dogs can also be bitten when owners are not around, so John Potash, co-owner and co-founder of Get Rattled, suggests that people know some general signs of a bite along with health risks: "Dogs are usually bitten on their limbs, neck, and head or face so look for severe swelling in those areas. After some time, the venom may produce nausea, vomiting, and the dog can seem lethargic and will begin to act as if something is bothering them. If you see a snake bite happen or notice these symptoms, keep your dog calm and take them to a vet right away. It's always better to be safe than sorry.

To register or for more information, please visit: GetRattled.org or contact Get Rattled at 775-234-8844 or email GetRattledNV@gmail.com.

Huge Turnout for National Public Lands Day Event

The 23rd annual National Public Lands Day (NPLD) is the largest, single-day volunteer event in the USA wherein different federal agencies host cleanups and other volunteer work on the last Saturday of September. The Southern Nevada Bureau of Land Management (BLM) held 3 events this year and the biggest event was at Logandale Trails.

“We had just short of 200 people attend this year”, said Bonnie Leavitt, administrative assistant for Partners In Conservation (PIC), the rural non-profit that has an Assistance Agreement with the BLM to perform daily administrative and maintenance tasks at Logandale Trails. “We are always happy to have 100 volunteers show up as that is a very successful event, but to get double that number—well that just shows how many people truly care about the trails!”

Volunteers arrived around 8 a.m. and were greeted with locally famous Lin’s donuts, coffee, juice, and hot cocoa. People visited while signing up and gathered maps or other informational items and giveaways which included a 2016 NPLD t-shirt and a free pass for a day to any federal fee area—both items donated by the local BLM office. Soon after, the BLM held a brief safety meeting and then participants gathered tools and supplies and set out to accomplish several tasks. The biggest project of the day was planting over 200 native trees, shrubs, and flowers in the picnic area; the BLM sent one of their fire trucks to provide water for all those plants and soon the desert overlook was populated with new vegetation.

A favorite task is always cleaning up trash along the many trails and many selected their favorite trail to clean and headed off to do so, but with so many people taking care of the trails now, everyone reported back the lack of trash this year, some bringing back a large trash bag with just a handful of litter that they had found. Now that’s evidence of a success story! Other tasks involved cleaning and painting the shade structures and trash bins as they are at least 20 years old and were looking neglected---but not anymore! Others installed signage, secured picnic tables to foundations, and other general upkeep. Soon, the Rotary Club arrived with 30 pizzas from Pirate’s Landing, Moapa Valley’s own pizza joint and their jeep was overloaded, akin to Santa Claus arriving with a sleigh full of toys!

Volunteers had really worked up an appetite and enjoyed pizza, salad, fruit, cookies, and brownies provided by PIC and Vegas Valley Four Wheelers (VV4W) who donate money every year to PIC for trail upkeep and volunteer events. The day ended with PIC’s signature Thank-You Raffle Drawing where many fun prizes were given away as a final gesture of thanks to all the hard working volunteers.

Information can be found on Logandale Trails Facebook page: <https://www.facebook.com/logandaletrails/>. The trails system is multiple use and many people camp, hike, picnic, enjoy photography, ride horses, and view wildlife as well as riding the trails, rock crawling in selected areas in the sandstone canyons, or playing in the sand dunes area—all in all, a scenic area nestled next to Moapa Valley, just 50 miles northeast of Las Vegas. Message PIC via the Facebook page for maps and additional information.

Fun Fall Events and Activities in the Northeast

As with other desert communities, Moapa Valley (MV) really comes to life in the spring and fall...and fall is here! From now until the holidays, there is something new to do every weekend!

The MV Corn Maze is a family favorite and provides a wonderful selection of activities, making it an all-day-into-evening affair! Pig races, picking pumpkins, day maze, haunted night maze, cow train, pumpkin bowling, hay rides--you and your children will go home exhausted but with big smiles on your faces—the MV Corn Maze is open every weekend in October.

Lost City Museum is open every weekend and has a fabulous Native American Day on November 12th with hours and other information available at <http://www.museums.nevadaculture.org/lcm>

In October the MV Chamber of Commerce hosts their 17th annual Car Show, on October 15th; the Logandale Fall Festival is the next weekend and it has really grown into a must-do event with non-stop bluegrass music, vendors, a BBQ cooking contest, a gem show, petting zoo and more.

Roos and More, a unique and family-friendly zoo is hosting their first ever “Boo at the Zoo”—now that just makes you want to see what is going on, doesn’t it? And Roos and More is only a few miles from the MV Corn Maze—plan to attend both events and you will not be disappointed!

The Overton Old Gym has its annual fundraiser, a Family Friendly Carnival” on October 21st and if you like barrel racing and horse events, be sure to attend the “Are You Tough Enough to Wear Pink” Jackpot Barrel Racing and Poles event, a local breast cancer fundraiser on October 22nd.

The Moapa Valley Chamber of Commerce’s website contains details for all the above: <http://moapavalleychamber.com> Additionally, the local paper, the Moapa Valley Progress has an online edition where you can also find additional details: <http://mvprogress.com>

And, spoiler alert: November events could possibly be more awesome, .... if that is even possible. Details to November’s activities will be in your next Rural Connection, so stay tuned!
