

Clark County Wetlands Park & Wetlands Park Friends Present A Summer Evening Lecture Series

Come join us for five outstanding lectures—from May through September—on important environmental topics, presented by prominent area experts! All lectures will take place at the Park's Nature Center Auditorium from 6 PM to 8 PM. These events are open to the public and are free of charge. Light refreshments will be served.

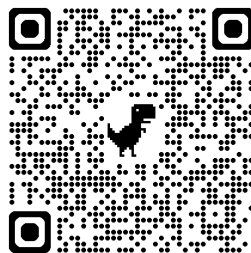

Thursday, September 18: How to Fly in the Dark: the Bats of Southern Nevada

Speaker: Dr. Sean Neiswenter, Associate Professor in Residence, University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Bats are the only mammals capable of powered flight... and they do it in the dark... while eating breakfast. Dr. Neiswenter will introduce some of the diverse bat species you will see in Clark County Wetlands Park and other areas of Las Vegas. He will explore the amazing adaptations bats have to let them navigate the night skies. He will present research on one of his favorite southern Nevada bat species.
